"Where is the warmth of yesterday?" saked a shiverling spectator at American League Park yesterday. "Where is the team of yesterday?" rejoined his neighbor as he watched the New Yorks play a weird first inning. Teeth chattered in the windswept stands no faster than the New Yorks made misplays and the Bostons made runs in the first inning, and the invoice of Boston tallies was enough to win the game. With his crippled hand Orth was wild and inefective. Hits by Parent, Collins, Grimshaw and Criger, two wild pitches, two bases on balls, one passed ball and an error gave the Bostons the six runs. The error was a wild throw by Conroy, who had an off day, but who, for all that, is one of the best ball players in America. Connie dropped a foul fly later on and that is something he does not do more than once in a generation.

Hogg did the pitching for New York after the first inning, and held the Bostons down in good style until the ninth, when Young's single and Burkett's smashing homer added two more runs to the Hub collection. Hits by Keeler and Yeager, a base on balls, Chase's hit and another base on balls forced in a run, whereupon Gen. Collins sent Lieut. Young to the firing line. That antiquated but able gentleman stopped a rally in its infancy by familing Hogg.

The board of review of the National Trotting Association finished the work of the session yesterday at the Murray Hill Hotel and adjourned. The most important case passed upon was that relating to the sale and purchase of the gray trotter Dr. Strong. 2:07½, during the race for the Massachu-setts stake at Readville, last August. A harge had also been made against the judges of the race. At the last meeting of the trotting congress At the last meeting of the trotting congress a new rule was added as 53, of which section 3 reads: "In case of the sale of an entered horse during the progress of a meeting at which said horse has an engagement, the said sale must be immediately reported in writing to the secretary of the track. The secretary shall notify the judges of the race and they shall cause the same to be publicly announced, at least two hours before the race."

announced, at least two hours before the race."

In the race for the $15,000 Massachusetts stake at Readville, last August, after Pr. Strong had won the second heat, E. E. Smathers bought him from Z. H. Travis of Teledo and stated that he believed he could win him out in purse and pools. Dr. Strong, however, failed to win, and was beaten by James Butler's Consuela S.

No announcement was made of the sale as required by the rule above and the ludges allowed the race to proceed without any protest or interference on their part. This was the case as it came before the board. It was the first case to be passed upon since the rule was framed and there was much curiosity as to what action would be taken.

The decision condensed arquits all parties of any intention of fraud in the sale and purchase and calls attention to the fact that the rule was but little known or understood by any one. A fine of $250 was imposed upon E. F. Smathers and J. H. Travis, the former owner was assessed $500. The judges were H. J. Kline of Levington, George B. Hoyt of Binchamton, and Howland Russell. Beston. No punishment was meted out to them. The closing senterce of the decision reads: "The sule being new and the integrity of the judges unquestioned, the case is dismissed."

Contest in Madison Square Garden Decided in Two Straight Falls-A Large and Enthusiastic Crowd on Hand to See the Grapplers-Befeated Man Used Up.

The wrestling match in Madison Square Garden last night between George Hacken-schmidt, the "Russian Lion," and Tom Jenkins, the American champion, was won by Hackenschmidt. The imported grappler won in two straight falls. The first fall took 31 minutes and 15 seconds and was won with a half Nelson hold. The second took 22 minutes and 4 seconds and was won with a half Nelson and body hold.

That a crowd of large proportions would be present was indicated as early as 6:30 o'clock. At that hour the denizens of the gallery put in an appearance. They lined up in front of the box office on East Twentysixth street and made a rush for scats which

At 7.45 o'clock these scats were disposed of, and the late comers had to seek vantage points in the reserved chairs or remain outside. There were many of the fair sex present last night. They took a decided interest in the proceedings. The match was the biggest wrestling event held in this city since the first contest between Youssouf and Ernest first contest between Youssouf and Ernest Roeber.

For weeks Hackenschmidt and Jenkins had been in training, and the feats of strength that the public was anxious to see just what sort of a specimen of humanity he was. Both men are of massive build and endowed with great strength and endurance. In last night's essay it was said that Hackenschmidt was trying a style of wrestling that he was not wholly conversant with. Greco-Roman is his forte, and at this style he has been able to beat his opponents in such drisive fashion as to establish him as the best exponent of Greco-Roman wrestling in the world. at the first glance. But at the seventeenth Chick was only two strokes to the bad, a fine showing against Travis on his home links.

As they walked to the eighteenth tee a cyclonic burst of wind and dust swept across cisive fashion as to establish him as the best exponent of Greco-Roman wrestling in the world.

His bout with Jenkins last night was at catch-as-catch-can style. This was their second meeting: the first one being in London last summer, when Hackenschmidt was returned the winner in two straight falls.

Arrangements were made to seat 10,000 persons last night. By the time the first preliminary was put on about 7,000 spectators were present, and the crowd kept coming. Backenschmidt on the strength of his European record, was the favorite at 2 to 1. Yet at these figures very few large bets were made. Jenkins's supporters, despite the fact that the style of the contest was the Cleveland man's preferred style, insisted on 1 to 2½, and in some instances got it.

As to weight, there was only a difference of eight pounds between them. Hackenschmift weighed 208 pounds and Jenkins 200 pounds. Jenkins had the advantage of an inch in height, the Russian standing 5 feet 10 inches and Jenkins 5 feet 11 inches. The match was to affireh, best two out of three falls to court. The main bout was to start at 2:30 o'clock, but the preliminaries were not firehed until long after that time.

Florrie Barnett was referee in the preliminaries. The first pair were Young Hackenschmidt and George Ruhlin of Chica so Hackenschmit gained the first fall in 12 minutes and 2 seconds with a hammer lock. Young Muldoen and Jack Harvey of Brooklyn next appeared. They wresiled twenty minutes a catch-as-catch-can, and the bout was stopped to make room for the stellar event.

At 2:47 Jenkins and Hachenschmidt took died out as quickly as it blew up.
"Every tournament here is accompanied by some new weather phenomena," said Travis, as he gazed on the whirling dust clouds. Then he banged the ball to the clouds. Then he banged the ball to the green and finished with a 3. But thick was fazed by the wind and topped into the lake, spoiling his card with a 6.

To the fifth hole (hick outplayed Travis at every stroke, except the approach on the third. On the sixth Iravis sliced his drive badly, but he made a fair recovery with an iron and then laid the ball stone dead from the mashie, one of the shots that mark a champion's game, getting the par of 4. Travis used his fifty-inch-shafted clubs, and they have undoubtedly improved his long game. Proof is that he was so close to the green of the 500 yard thirteenth in two that he used a putter for his third, holing in 4, and he was on the 444 yard seventeenth green, despite the side gale, in 2. On the seventh, tenth and eleventh greens Travis took 3 puts. His card was 39 each way, 78, and Chick's 40, 43—83. At match play Travis would have been 2 up.

At 9:47 Jenkins and Hachenschmidt took their corners. Tim Hurst was the referee, while the judges were Johnny O'Brien and Hughey Leonard of the New York Athletio Club. Johnny Eckhardt acted as timekeeper for Jenkins, while Mr. Ebenhoff held the watch for the Russian. Jenkins was handled by Clarence Boulden, while Hackenschmidt's chief second was Joe Rogers, known as "Baby Joe." Frank Cotch, who was at the ringside, and Fred Bell, the Western wrestler, each challenged the winner.

The contest began at 9:37 o'clock. They indulged in the usual fiddling at the start Then the Russian showed his strength by shoving Jenkins off at will. Jenkins missed a leg hold. A moment later Jenkins got a crotch hold, which Hackenschmidt broke.

Jenkins fell to the mat after evading waist lock and the lion went on top. Hackenschmidt tried to lift Jenkins in the sir, but Tom guarded himself by keeping his left leg close to Hackenschmidt's crotch, ready for a trip.

At the fifteenth minute a rough tussle ensued in which Jenkins went on top, but after a minute the lion broke away, immediately becoming the aggresser. He tried all sorts of neck and body holds on Jenkins, but failed to connect. Jenkins got a side chancery on Hackenschmidt, but the Russian broke it easily and, grasning Jenkins around the body raised the American above his head and brought him to the mat in a hurry, Jenkins larding on bis stomach.

and brought him to the mat in a hurry, Jenkins landing on his stomach.

Hackenschmidt's agility was marvelous and no holds seemingly were too powerful for him to break. Jenkins was growing tired and brought into requisition all of his favorite tricks, none, however, was successful. Hackenschmidt applied a full Nelson at the end of the twenty-ninth minute, and Jenkins resisted the hold by sitting on his haunches.

Nelson at the end of the twenty-ninth minute, and Jenkins resisted the hold by sitting on his haunches.

But Hackenschmidt pounced on him, quickly applying a similar hold. He turned Jenkins on both shoulders, but not long enough to convince the referee that it was a pin fall. Hackenschmidt followed up his advantage and put another full Nelson on his man. This time there was no chance for Jenkins to get away.

He made a hard, but ineffectual effort to escape, but it was useless, and the Rusian Lion gained the first fall in 31 minutes and 15 seconds. Jenkins was all but out, and staggered to his chair weak and crestfallen. After an intermission of fifteen minutes the second bout began. The Russian was the aggressor. He rushed Jenkins around the ring with such victousness that Jenkins was glad to take to the mat. When they got up Jenkins attempted a dive for Hachenschmidt's legs, but instead the "Lion" caught Jenkins around the shoulders and almost tossed the American through the rones.

Jenkins capsized Hackenschmidt by diving for the foreigner's legs. But the Russian was only down a minute, Jenkins failing to even budge his man. Jenkins arose nonniussed. He was all at sea and began rough house tactics.

While they were in a standing position Hackenschmidt's leat arm and body, but by slow degrees and pure strength Hackenschmidt broke loose and quick as a flash brought Jenkins over his head and flung him to the mat. Jenkins urned on his stornach hefore Hackenschmidt could secure a half Nelson, which he apparently was after. Hackenschmidt again raised his man above his head, trying to gain a back hammer in mid air.

Fast work was indulged in in the next five minutes. Jenkins tried all the tricks he knew.

Washington, May 4.—Instead of the usual 38 hole play to qualify for the president's cup in the spring Chevy Chase golf tourney to-day only one round of the course was required and the thirty-two best scores were paired in match play in the afternoon. W. H. Duff, Edgewood Club, Pittisburg, won the low score qualification prize with 80 two over bogsy, which has been increased from 75. Duff was beaten in match play for the first sixteen by W. P. Compton, Chevy Chase. Sydney Maddock, Crescent Athletic Club, was also beaten in the qualifying round match play by Horace Wylle, Chevy Chase. Hackenschmidt again raised his head, trying to gain a back hammer in mid air.

Fast work was indulged in in the next five minutes. Jenkins tried all the tricks he knew, but none of them scored. He got several dangerous locks on Hackenschmidt, but was unable to hold. At the twenty-first minute Hackenschmidt had a full Nelson on Jenkins.

When he got it Jenkins was close to the ropes, but the Russian edged around and had Jenkins partly over. Tom, however, slipped away. The Russian did not give his man any quarter. He went after the same hold and managed to get a half Nelson. Slowly, but surely the "Lion" got over the other's arm and locked it so securely that Jenkins could not even bring his legs into play.

Finally, Jenkins went over on one shoulder and Hackenschmidt, seeing his opportunity, feel on top of the Clevelander. Jenkins made a half bridge, but the Russian crushed it and the match was over. The time was 22 minutes 4 seconds. Jenkins's seconds had to carry him out of the ring. He was ghastly pale and as limp as a rag.

A moment later Mayor Weaver was discovered. He had been consumed by curi-crity, had borrowed an old derby to take the place of his famous plug and, with coat collar turned up, had sallied out. "There he is!" "Sinful John!" "Soak hir!" cried the crowd. Surrounded by plain-clothes men the Mayor ran into the City Hall. ANOTHER BLUE FOR VANDERBILT

His Team of Browns Wins at the Durland Herse Show. Alfred G. Vanderbilt added another blue ribbon to his collection last night at the horse show of the Durland Company. He showed his $20,000 team of four browns in the class for four in hands over 15 hands and drove himself. Judgo Moore showed his well known team of browns, and O. H. Kahn had a team of chestnuts. The judges seemed to decide scon which team was entitled to first prize, but a long time was taken up in settling the winner of the second prize, and then much to the surprise all, the chestnuts were placed second and Judge Moore's browns

In the next class, however, Judge Moore got some satisfaction. This class was for the best ladies' harness horse, appointments to count 50 per cent, and the horse 50 per cent. ladies to drive. Perfection, driven by Mrs. Dick Donnelly, lived up to his name and took the blue ribbon. Mrs. J. B. C. Grosvenor drove Laughing Water, a good looking brown mare, and captured the second prize. The third ribbon was pinned on Saint Bay, owned by Mrs. A. O. Van Heusen. Miss Alice Van Heusen, who is only a little girl, drove the mare and did so well that several times she
